Apprenticeships combine work with learning. You'll get to start working in your chosen area of health and care, learning the necessary skills on the job while you study for your qualification.

There are great opportunities to progress through apprenticeships if you want to do that, and the range of opportunities keeps growing. Apprenticeships range across all levels including degrees, and many lead to nationally recognised and regulated roles.

The aim of this document is to:

- show the types of jobs in the NHS that are available as an apprenticeship
- provide links to further information and useful websites

New apprenticeship standards are being developed all the time so be sure to check back frequently.
